

Share the road signage

BY CAROL MCCLELLAND, NORTH SHORE NEWS APRIL 14, 2013

Dear Editor:

I have a simple question for the people responsible for the signage in North Vancouver. I have noticed while riding around, that roads like Mount Seymour Parkway and Dollarton Highway have shared road signs and the bicycle motif painted on them. Could someone please tell me why we can't have the same thing on Keith Road? Especially now that the weather is turning nicer and the Low Level Road construction will be starting up.

We have had numerous suggestions for this stretch of road in the past. The recent addition of new sidewalks has been awesome, thank you. Now what about a sign or two to remind those drivers who feel the need to speed up the hill in the inside lane of the two lanes, that cyclists share this road too. My cycling to work would be a lot less stressful and hopefully safer.
