LETTER: City counts on neighbour to serve its residents' needs

Dear Editor:

Once again, the City of North Vancouver is relying on the district to properly serve the needs of its own residents. Little wonder the city can boast of such strong cash reserves.

The new William Griffin Pool will now have to meet the extra demand while the city ignores the Harry Jerome facility that is being held together by duct tape and baling wire.

The competitive swimming community will not get its hoped-for 50-metre pool, and it will not get the added capacity for meets and training that a new Harry Jerome pool would have provided. Shame on you city council.
