LETTER: Message to council: stop in camera meetings

Dear Editor:

Trevor Carolan hit the nail squarely on the head with his Sunday, Sept. 28 column, District Council's Dirty Little Secret. As a lifelong resident of the City of North Vancouver, I am more incensed with each passing day with the situation here, and how things are being done. The privilege of "in camera" secret meetings has been increasingly abused for years. I remember when things were not done this way. What has been happening here is disgraceful. The time has more than come for a mayor and council who represent the electorate, not developers and their campaign donations. Property developers are completely out of control, and know exactly what to do in order to get exactly what they want, everyone and everything else be damned.
