Another rider down

Yesterday we took a little trip down Neds in the afternoon. Came up to the natural drop, it was all taped off and the NSSR was tending to a rider down. Apparently a spiral fracture of his lower leg. Tim Jones said that's his most popular rescue spot this year. He was supposedly riding alone, but kinda with a group he met on the Huckwagon. I would have hated to see what would have happened if someone came over the drop while he was laying in the landing zone. He was a young English guy riding a Peeler, I think his name was Hayden. Hope he heals up fast, seemed to be in pretty good spirits. The NSSR was keeping everyone in good spirits with some comic relief. Lots of riders stopped and offered help.

Let's be careful out there guys, sometimes it's the hit you've done a hundred times before that kicks your ass.

For every action, there is an equal and opposite re-action that usually separates me from my bike and slams me mercilessly into the ground.
